

Workshop

Chai Break for Breakthroughs: Brewing Brilliant Research Question

Dr. Stefan Lüder - History Department

Are you ready to transform your research ideas into clear, original, and feasible questions - while enjoying a cup of chai?

A great research question is the key to unlocking scientific discovery! But finding one can feel as elusive as the perfect blend of spices in your favourite tea. Join us for “Chai Break for Breakthroughs: Brewing Brilliant Research Questions,” a dynamic 90-minute workshop designed for researchers of all levels across the humanities and social sciences.

Guided by the innovative “Tea Break” method, you’ll embark on a creative, interactive journey that blends personal inspiration with scholarly rigor. Through a series of structured tea breaks, you’ll:

- Tap into what truly excites you about your field
- Build bridges between trends, methods, and disciplines
- Sharpen and operationalize your ideas into actionable research questions
- Benefit from collegial feedback in a supportive, stimulating environment

Leave with a peer-reviewed, ready-to-pursue research question and a fresh perspective on the art of academic inquiry. Whether you’re stuck at the starting line or looking to refine your next big project, this workshop will help you steep, sip, and shape your way to research excellence.

Bring your curiosity and your favourite mug!

Monday, July 7, 2025
11:00 - 13:00 (CEST)
CATS Room 130.00.03
Open to all! - In presence

Registration via e-mail at lizeth.ortiz@sai.uni-heidelberg.de
Only 18 seats - first come, first served!

More information